

I agree with Governor Codey's views, and I too, oppose to the weakening of NJ's Do Not Call program. Having this strict program in place has really benefited NJ. The fact that over 2.8 million NJ residents have signed up for it is enough reason alone to know that NJ residents do not want telemarketers calling them. I do not think that it should be weakened just to satisfy telemarketers needs. We are the customer, and if we want something, we will look for ways to get it, but not having people give us a "sales pitch".
